TEACHER EMBARKS ON EXPEDITION

A Unioto High School science teacher has left for another overseas research trip.

Jenifer Circle-Potter has been selected as a 2009 Earth Expeditions participant and will be studying species reintroduction and ecosystem restoration on the Caribbean island of Trinidad until June 28.

Earth Expeditions' Field Expedition program, created by Project Dragonfly at Miami University and the Cincinnati Zoo & Botanical Garden, recognizes outstanding U.S. and international educators and engages them in firsthand educational and scientific research at conservation hot spots around the world.

Circle-Potter has been selected at least three times to conduct research with Earth Expeditions.
